

The Dice

A pair of six-sided dice, frozen in mid-air.

The Wanderer

A rugged walking staff in hand, the Wanderer's clothes look dusty and worn.

The Loremaster

An old, nearly ancient-looking man. There's an unspeakably old and thick-looking book on a pedestal in front of him, its writing tiny and its pages thin.

The Clown

Dressed in the traditional garb of a court jester, the Clown stands unnaturally tall and broad-shouldered, almost a small giant. His face is cold and cruel, twisted in a wicked smile.

The Rabbit

A nervous-looking thing, the Rabbit's long ears seem to be turned to intently listen to something while his eyes are looking in the opposite direction.

Speeding Locomotive

A symbol of modern Science, the locomotive is speeding fast towards the Future.

The Master Con Artist

The face of the Master Con Artist is obscured, so as to not give away his (or maybe her) identity.

Diamond Throne

A humanoid shape sits hunchbacked on the throne, its form and appearance insignificant. The throne is larger than the person on it, casting an aura of command.

The Child

A young child of indeterminate gender, dressed in middle-class clothing. (S)he stands holding an old doll, a vague smile on his or her lips.

The Rat

A large rat standing on its hindpaws, it is looking around with a vigilant, cunning look in its eyes. Its two front paws look ready to strike at an unaware opponent at any moment.

Beating Heart

A human heart, frozen in mid-motion. The numerous veins criss-crossing its surface give the impression of a gentle face.

The Giant Goblin

The Giant Goblin has the biggest belly anyone has ever seen, his feet hidden somewhere behind it.

The Great Mountains

A vast and tall mountain chain, the Great Mountains extend infinitely in every possible direction, taking root wherever there is land willing to hold them.

The Vigilante

Dressed as an impeccable upper-class gentleman, the only stylistic breach in the Vigilante's appearance is the pair of pistols worn openly on the belt, ready to be drawn at a moment's notice.